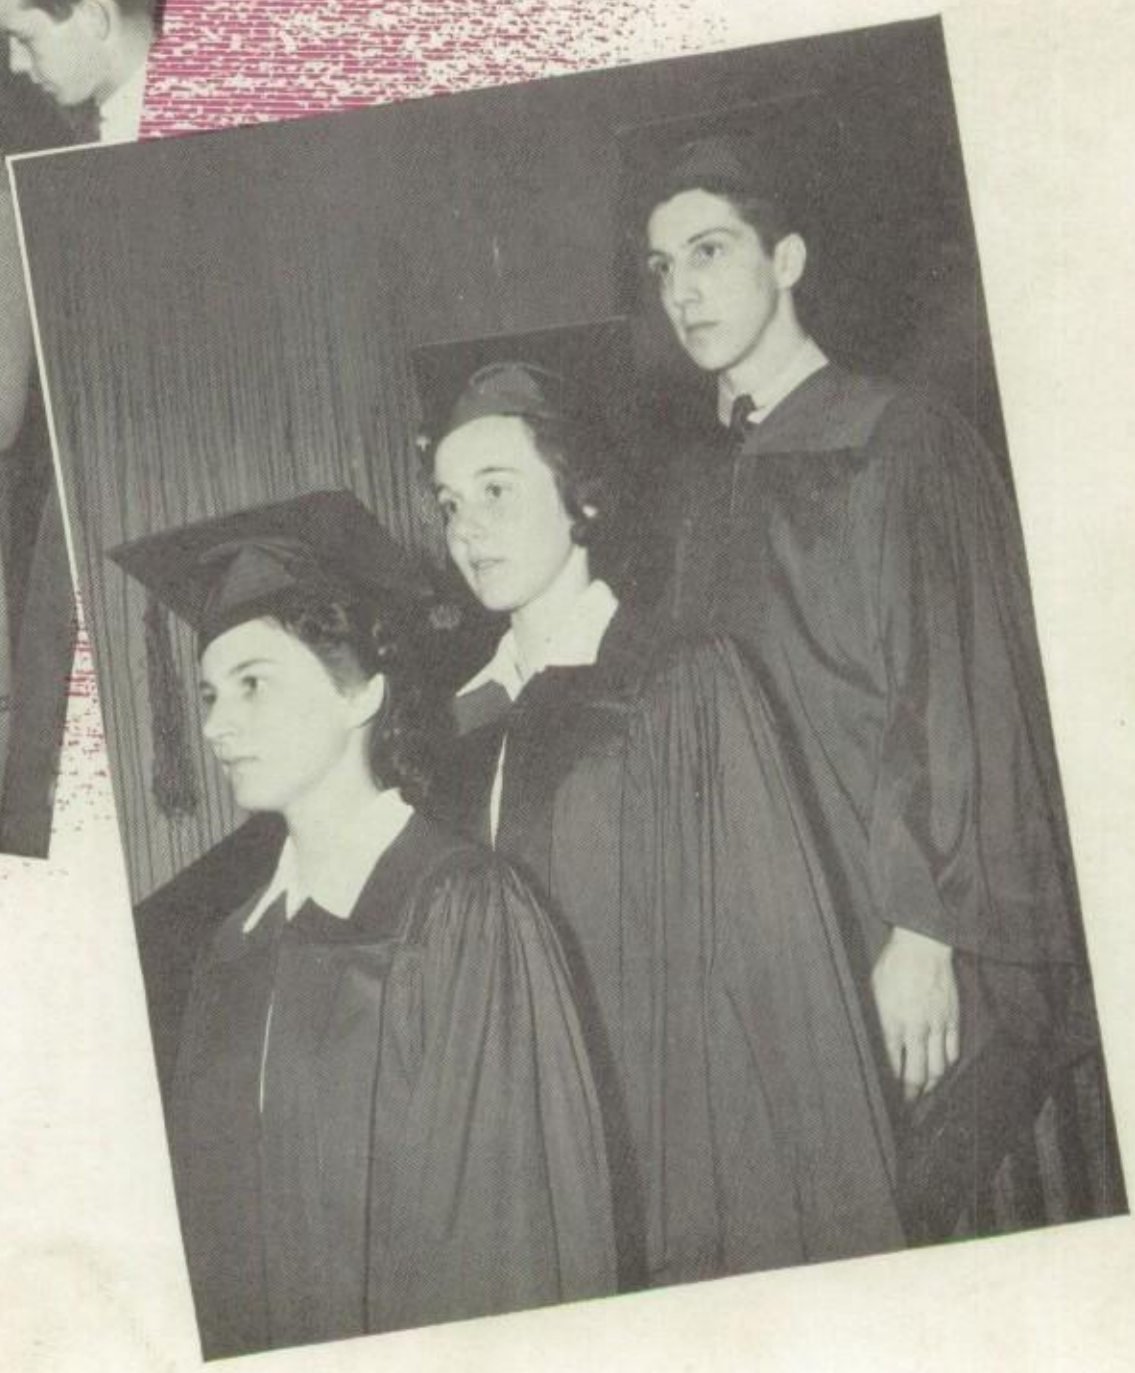
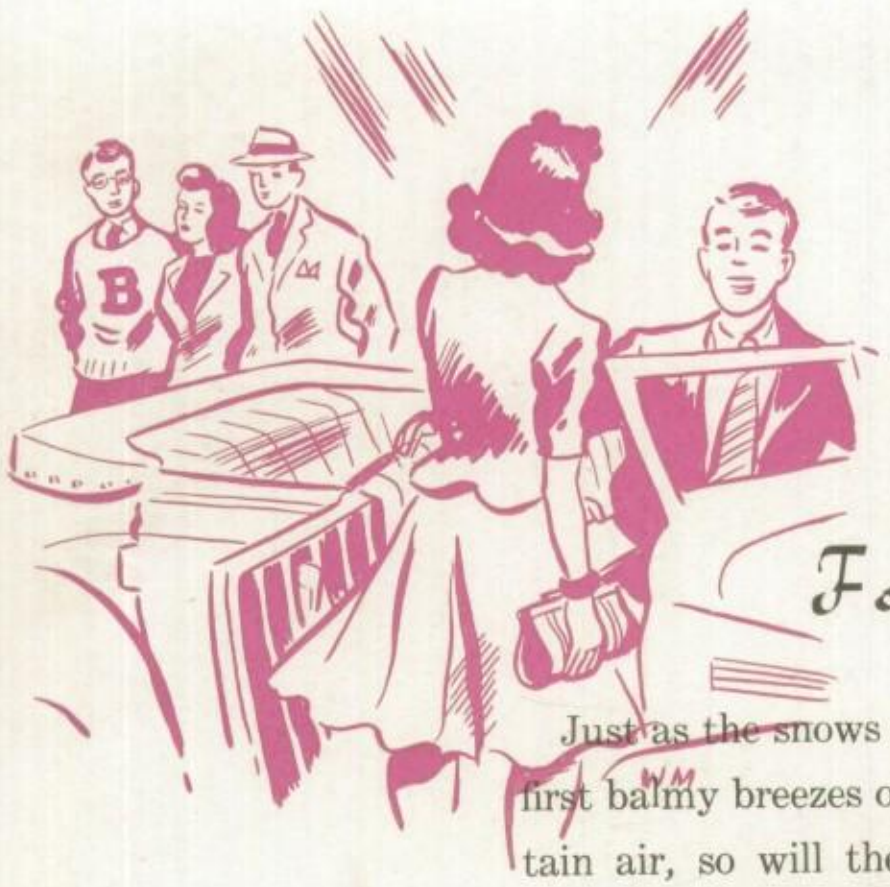
HERO

ILE OF OUR LIFE AT BEDFORD DURING FORTY TWO





Foreword

Just as the snows of winter are forgotten when the first balmy breezes of spring filter through the mountain air, so will the many everyday events in the student's life be erased by the hustle and bustle of the busy world. We sincerely hope that this record of our life at Bedford High in 1942 will indeed be an "Echo" of the year's momentous events. As the golden days of autumn hastened toward the frosty blasts of winter, fiery disaster stalked relentlessly through the familiar portals. Adjustment, without loss of a single day, continued through winter's ice and the showers of spring. With the first sultry rays of the summer sun came graduation, and another year in our lives becomes a memory.

WHEN

September Comes

As the cool greens of summer turn to the gorgeous reds and yellows of autumn the students of Bedford High trudge with varying emotions back to school. Timid, little seventh graders stand shyly in the halls which are to them strange unexplored realms, watching confident seniors with wide-eyed envious wonder. The bell rings—another year, the year o 1942, is under way.

Hurry, the bell rang!

The end of another day

Service please, I'll miss the kick off.

THE POWERS THAT BE

DR. R. D. GRISSINGER, Pres.

As we leave Bedford High School, it is only fitting and proper that we express our gratitude to those who have made our all too brief association with the school possible. Our golden friendships, our invaluable training, our never-to-be-forgotten memories are ours—ours under the guidance and protection of such friends as Dr. R. D. Grissinger, Dr. H. A. Shimer, Mr. D. C. Reiley, Mr. Walter Allen, and Mrs. Calton Heckerman, all members of the Board of Education for the past several years. These our friends have done much for us, and we, the graduates of 1942, acknowledge our debt.

Life Begins!

"One man's guess concerning life is that we wait some forty years before the thing begins. Another says that everything is set and fixed before we even talk, or walk, or even point a finger at the rattle on the crib. There's an answer to the question but it does not deal with time and has nothing much to do with science."

"You may start when you are willing to be honest with yourself and to treat the other fellow with respect. You may start when you love knowledge and have faith in God, the master—when you feel like being humble day by day. You may start when duty calls you, when you love to serve a cause, when you feel consideration for the weak. You may start when you are ready to defend and to obey when the nation is in danger from a foe. You may start when you have vision and a vital moving urge to give freely of your service to mankind."

COACHING STAFF

Begins Work

Mr. Sheely
Mr. Hubicsak
Mr. Earon

For thirteen years, Mr. Sheely, our jovial faculty manager, has scheduled all of Bedford's athletic events.

Mr. Hubicsak has for thirteen years through good seasons and bad coached our football teams.

Mr. Earon, a newcomer to our staff this year, introduced a completely new basketball system and immediately won our whole-hearted support.

Mr. Sproul, our busy activities director, has since its inauguration directed the destinies of the Junior High basketball team.

Mr. Koontz, who has coached wrestling since its inauguration here six years ago, had three district champions this year.

When It's Fall

IT'S FOOTBALL !

King Football, in sweltering sun and frosty wind, he rules. His court convened at Bedford High almost exclusively this year beneath a star studded sky. Under the brilliant white of the new lights His Majesty sat enthroned, weighing the pros and cons, and in most cases deciding against our team.

In the opening game the Bisons were forced to bow to a far superior old rival, Shade Township, by score of 34-0. On the following Friday Bedford fans groaned in anguish when one of the greenest teams ever to appear on a field was defeated for the first time in history by Claysburg. Score 18-0! Then came the hurricane—a plucky blue and white team was crushed, 44-0, by the foes from Somerset. Saturday afternoon,

Where's the truck?

Look out, Aveni's got the ball!

October 4, Bedford played host to Meyersdale, the only day game of the season at home, and were licked 13-0. At this point Coach Hubicsak's boys perked up and played the kind of football fans dream about. They journeyed to Roaring Spring and won a sparkling 6-0 battle.

Midseason, and the splendid fighting spirit of the team became apparent. They surprised a very strong Hollidaysburg club by holding them to a 7-0 score. Saturday, October 25, loyal fans traveled to Bellwood in freezing weather to see Bedford lose 18-0.

But on October 30, the stampeding Bisons trampled their traditional rivals, Saxton, 18-6! Team and students celebrated next day with a snake dance through the streets and no school! Accompanied by winter's icy blasts the blue and white team played host to Tyrone's prospective champions in the final game of the season. Score 20-0.

Gridiron Greats

Every year one particular achievement of each player, whether he be on the line or in the back field, stands out. We have attempted to record those achievements here.

Aveni—his sensational 97 yard run in the Saxton game.

Diehl—his beautiful passing against Meyersdale.

Drenning—his brilliant blocking against Roaring Spring.

Alburtis—his off tackle plays against Hollidaysburg.

Shaffer—his nice blocking for Alburtis in the Hollidaysburg game.

S. Harris—consistently good work in the center spot, especially against Meyersdale.

Rose—neat pass interception at Hollidaysburg.

Horner—clever blocking for Aveni against Tyrone.

J. Harris—snaring pass in Bellewood game.

Smith—efficient blocking against Saxton.

Mowery—beautiful tackling at Bellewood.

Shull—beautiful catch in Meyersdale game.

ACTIVITIES BEGIN

GENIUS AT WORK

"This meeting please come to order," says James Russell, president of the National Honor Society, fixing a disapproving eye on vice president, Bill Miller, who is chatting with Mr. Sproul. Throwing a questioning glance at Catherine Hershberger, who is collecting her notes and June Drenning, hurriedly checking the figures of her treasurer's report, he asks for a review of the past year's activities. A moment's silence, then several voices answer, "Selling defense stamps." "The induction ceremony." "Don't forget we sold tickets at all athletic events." We leave Jim pounding for order.

JUNIOR GENIUSES

"Learning is the symbol of light borne into dark places"—torches gleaming the National Junior Honor Society brings its impressive induction ceremony to a close. Founded upon four attributes, scholarship, service, leadership and character, its aims are to improve school citizenship and to raise scholastic standards.

Students who possess these four basic attributes and who rank in the upper tenth of their class are proposed for membership by the faculty council. Present members elected Betty Schnably, president; John Goad, vice president; Mary Lou Langham, secretary; and Joann Fisher, treasurer.

OCTOBER HOURS

STAR ATHLETES

The Bedford chapter of the National Athletic Scholarship Society was founded in 1936 to encourage athletes to improve their scholastic standing. Lettermen who have maintained an average of seventy-five or above for three previous semesters are eligible for membership. Each year seniors are presented with athletic charms as a reward for outstanding service. The society's attractive pin is a familiar one, appearing more often than not on the sweater of a member of the fair sex.

Officers this year are Raymond Morgart, president; Bernard Beemiller, vice president and James Russell, secretary.

STUDENT LAWMAKERS

Leaning nonchalently against the desk, Bill Miller, president of the Student Council, waits for the members to arrive. Presently he raps for order and secretary, Jane Slick, reads the minutes, which contain a list of the year's activities to be used at the coming convention. They find that they gave weekly programs, held office of state treasurer, attended state convention at Harrisburg, took part in campaign to protect Bedford and aided in defense sale. The bell rings, and Louise Stroup, treasurer, moves to adjourn the meeting.

TWIRLERS

From this group of prospects may come the girls who will some day lead Bedford's band. Under the direction of the drum major and majorettes they learn the routines of a twirler beginning with a simple twist of the wrist and progressing to the complicated finger twirl. Elbows become black and blue, legs grow stiff from marching; but these things pass away to be replaced by the smooth, graceful style which comes only through practice.

MUSIC

Fills the Autumn Sky

Blue and white uniforms stand out against a dusty background of velvety black and brilliant white as the sparkling B.H.S. Band swings down the field. Once again this group has turned out to do its share in backing up our teams. White stripes move with rhythmic precision down the field, finally disappearing from view into the inky darkness.

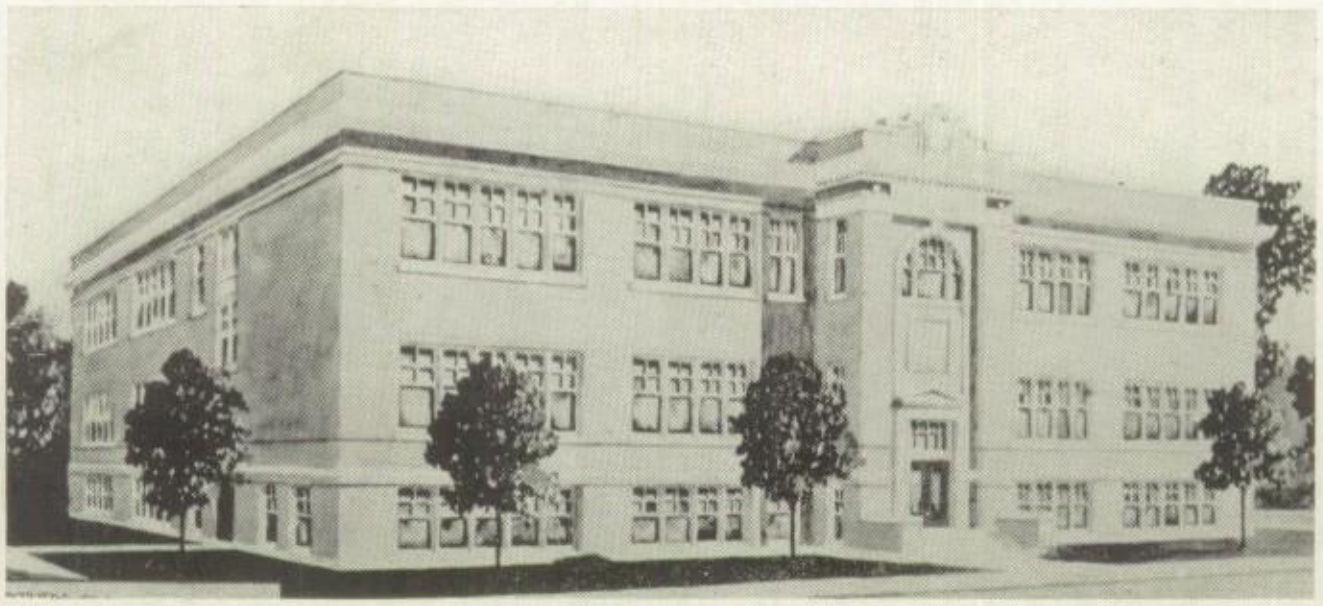
MELODY ON PARADE

A sharp, shrill whistle, the flash of eight twirling batons, the roll of drums and the "Blue and White" band marches gaily onward through another successful year. When the election ballots are counted it is discovered that James Russell is president; Bill Miller, secretary; and Betty Manspeaker, business manager. Having continued practice over the summer vacation, this group is now ready to tackle a big event on their well-filled schedule, that of playing at the football games. After football season they settle down under the watchful eye of their jovial director, Mr. Hunsicker, to prepare for the annual winter concert of the music department. When this is successfully completed the band is invited to aid in the dedication of the Pennsylvania Turnpike, then of the Colerain Township Grade School and finally are asked to give a concert at Everett High School. In the spring five members are invited to appear in the district band. Then comes another big event, the annual spring concert, which is again a huge success. Next year seventeen new faces will be seen in this active group to fill the empty places left by departing seniors.

NOVEMBER

Brings Disaster



As our building looked before the fire

A STUDENTS ACCOUNT OF THE FIRE

At 10:23 on the morning of November 29, 1941, the ominous shrill of the fire whistle pierced the crisp autumn air. I know because I was dusting the clock. Curious I stuck my head out the window using my dust cloth as an excuse to look around. As I gazed casually over the roof tops I saw billows of smoke rolling skyward from—heavens, it can't be—the schoolhouse! I dashed for the telephone and heard the operator say, "The fire is at the high school. Rushing pell mell from the house, I reached it in record time and found all of Bedford there. Pushing through the crowd, I worked my way around front where the smoke was pouring from the east end of the third floor. The library was already gone and as I watched, blue, green and yellow flames shot upward—"Chemicals stored in the basement," a man said. I stood stunned and helpless, watching the building in which I had spent so many hours, tottering. The hopelessly inadequate stream of water had as much chance as has a snowball in summer. I wandered around back; there students and townspeople were rushing in and out removing band instruments, stage equipment, curtains—everything movable—from the new edition. I joined them but after several trips decided I was doing more harm than good so back around front I went. By this time the ruin in the east end of the building was complete and the flames were licking unchecked at the west end. I watched, so maddeningly helpless, as they reached Miss Bowman's room. "Look, the blinds in Mr. Tritt's room are all so even and undisturbed, why don't they do something to save it?" a voice remarked. "Yes, why don't they?" I echoed as the flames reached that room, too. Now the destruction of the old part was complete. Would the auditorium go too? For a while I thought so. Then by some miracle the fire subsided. I went inside the auditorium. Water dripped from the ceiling, smoke filled the room, broken glass and puddles of water covered the floor, but at least it was still standing. I wandered through the remaining class rooms empty now except for the ever widening pools of water in the center. Then I went home.

Tuesday morning school was resumed in the grade school.

WINTER

Comes to Bedford

Look! It can't be—yes, it is! It's snowing! Get out the boots, shine up the skates, wax the skis and hunt up lots of warm clothes 'cause when it snows in Bedford, it snows!

Snow, however, doesn't mean fun for every student. To some ambitious souls it means money in the pockets and blisters on the hands. To some it just means "bundling up" and trying desperately not to get the sniffles. But these folks are in the minority. The typical student's first thought is "Oh bliss! If it snows enough the buses won't be able to get in, then we won't have school."

Don't get the idea that winter at B.H.S. is all snow. It isn't—not quite, that is. There are those days of bitter cold with the temperature hovering near fifteen degrees below zero and not a flake of snow in sight. Students now fit the rime "The north wind shall blow, and we shall have snow, and what will poor robin do then?" Substitute "students" for "robin"and you have the general idea. They must brave the blasts to go from one building to another in order to continue their work. Cold weather is, however, but a passing inconvenience, for not even Jack Frost in person could keep these loyal fans from coming out to lend their support at the basketball games and wrestling meets.

Whoa, take it easy!

Havin' fun, girls?

The Play

IS THE THING

Make me pretty now.

Is it cold up there, Hayes?

"Agatha's Aunt"

On the evening of May 1, Agatha's Aunt by Sidney Toler was presented by the senior class. The plot centers around Agatha, played by Catherine Hershberger, a young girl who has inherited a shabby old farmhouse from her great-aunt Agatha. To earn money Agatha, her fourteen-year old brother Howard, Bill Miller, and her aunt, Zaida Finch, Mary Catherine Askey, seek summer boarders. A young blind man, Burton Forbes, Robert Ickes, who knew her great-aunt and is not aware of her death, makes application. To keep him Agatha poses as her own great-aunt, but finds it too tough a job, for Burton's friend, Ridge Warren, Raymond Boore, his fiancee Julia, Carol Logan, and her aunt Mrs. Knox, Jean Ebersole, discover the deception.

Meanwhile Zaida—much to the amusement of Phemie Tidd, the ignorant maid, Betty Manspeaker—is having matrimonial difficulties in the forms of Deacon Wiggins, Junior Kauffman, and Jim Doolittle, Lee Cline. All ends well, however, when Agatha smooths out her difficulties and Zaida decides on Jim Doolittle.

Oh-h-h don't shoot!

"Elmer"

In the one-act play, Elmer, presented by the drama class last fall, Elmer Collier, the mischief loving fourteen-year old boy, played by Joe May, took pity on his slighted sixteen-year old sister, Susan Collier, played by Janet Mollaneur, and proceeded to draw attention to her plight in his own melodramatic way, aided by his dog, Pansy. Jeanie and Janie Collier, the spoiled seventeen-year old twins, the root of all the trouble, Peggy Ott and Betty Lou Souser, Hubert Brown, bashful boy friend of Janie, Max Bucklew, and Sarah Pate as the slow, colored maid, Fannie Bell, are badly frightened by a bandit who steals Susan's new evening coat just as Janie is about to wear it. Mrs. Collier, a nonobservant mother, Catherine Hershberger, and Miss Lousa Pinney, a spinster dressmaker, Norma Connor, become more and more bewildered as the play progresses, and Russell Jameson, a seventeen-year old boy, Tommy Shoemaker, is completely in the dark about everything. Elmer is the bandit who wears Susan's coat under his bathrobe to prevent Janie from wearing it.

Come on, get hot!

DANCING

Was in Order

Spring, summer, fall and winter, day or night, dancing is in order at Bedford High School. Dances vary from the elaborate Junior Prom to the informal get-togethers with a juke box providing the music. Dancing ranges from the sedate waltz to the abandoned jitterbug. Jitterbugging, however, is confined to its more conservative forms, and variations of the two step are by far the most popular. An occasional couple will swing out on a rhumba, conga or the lindy-hop, but B.H.S. students in general, do not take their dancing very seriously. We venture that ninety-nine percent of the student body dances purely for pleasure and do not trouble to keep up with the latest steps.

One, two, three, go!

Doctors of Swing

"My Mamma done tole me"—these familiar words of Bedford High's most popular song float through the dimly lighted gym as the dance band begins another jam session. This group is composed of twenty-two people interested in creating swing. In their first appearance this year at the student council party they introduced their two new vocalists, Dinty Elliott and Geraldine Bucklew. Later in the year they featured Sammy Harris, a new addition to the band as drummer and vocalist. The officers retained from last year are James Russell, president and Betty Manspeaker, secretary-treasurer.

Hobbyists at work.

ATTENTION HOBBYISTS!

"Seen my latest matchflap?" a Hobby Club member asks proudly, exemplifying a typical collectors' enthusiasm. This club's purpose is to create and develop a hobby, which may be either creative or collective. At meetings these hobbies are discussed, displayed, and enlarged, each member aiding the other when possible. Speakers and excursions add variety and entertainment to the program. The thirty-six members chose Ann Anderson, president John Heacock, secretary; and Jack Caldwell, treasurer.

GIRLS ONLY

"Pure thoughts, pure words, pure deeds"—this is the lofty motto of the Tri-Hi-Y. The club is a service organization whose purpose is to encourage its members to become better Christians and better Americans.

Although they are best known for their pie sales, the girls also comp!eted a Bible study course, chanced off a magazine subscription and sent delegates to nearby conventions.

The group is efficiently organized with Catherine Hershberger, president; Marilyn Miller, vice-president; Hazel Heming, secretary; Ruth Bussard, treasurer, and Bette Brown, program director.

FUTURE FARMERS

Since their competent sponsor, Mr. Phillips, went to the army a familiar question in our chapter of the Future Farmers of America has been, "Wonder who's going to be our next sponsor?" The boys elected as their president, Kenny Oster; vice president, Fred Koontz; secretary, Francis Imgrund; treasurer, Bill Perdew and reporter, Lloyd Casteel. Activities of the group included hatching chicks on a commercial scale, and operating a food stand at the Bedford Fair, as well as at the football games. Individual development is encouraged in the club by sponsoring chapter contests and projects.

MERRY STENOS VS. JOLLY JUNIORS

Vote for the Merry Stenos! Vote for the Jolly Juniors! These two parties held an honest-to-goodness election complete to campaign speeches. Club offices were won by Dorothy Stern, president; Hazel Nave, vice president; Charlotte Gardner, secretary; and Dorothy Hite, treasurer.

Members of the Commercial Club strive to develop the qualities necessary in an efficient office worker by discussions, lectures, and trips to local business offices. Most looked for event is the monthly social meeting.

FUTURE HOMEMAKERS

The club motto "Each girl is the architect of her own future" sums up the purpose of this club, which endeavors to prepare girls to be good future homemakers.

The club is active in charity and war work; two of its projects this year were dressing dolls for needy children and making shirts for refugees. With the cooperation of Miss Squires this group united with other schools to form a county organization in which each girl must earn a certain number of points by end of the term to receive her pin.

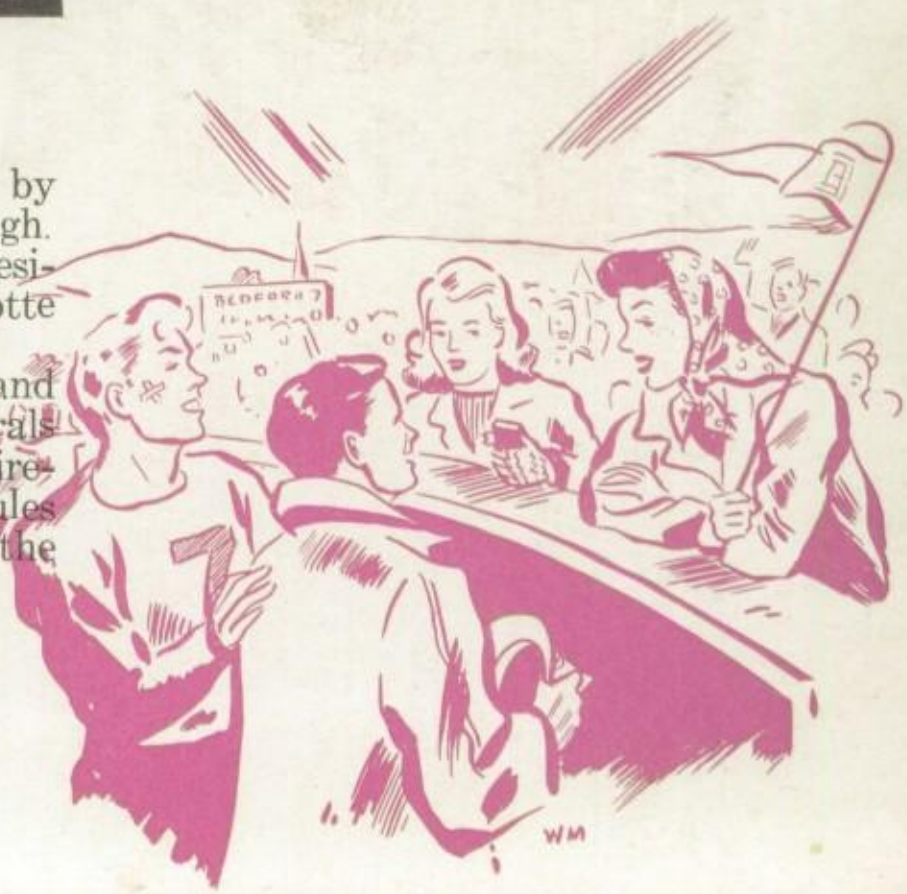
RULERS OF SPORTS

The Athletic Board, whose officers are elected by the student body, controls athletics in Bedford High. This year the students elected James Russell, president; Betty Lou Souser, vice president; and Charlotte Gardner, secretary.

The group's purpose is to promote fair play and good sportsmanship in athletics. They award numerals and letters to those athletes who meet their requirements. Faculty manager, Mr. Sheeley, schedules all contests; the treasurer, Mr. Sproul, pays all the bills.



BASKETBALL

Warms up the Winter

The 1941-42 team will be remembered as one of the highest scoring teams in the history of basketball at Bedford High. Such sharp-shooters as Capt. Aveni, Bill Keys and Tom Mundwiler, piled up a total of four hundred points with fifty points as highest score in any one game.

In the first game of the season the quintet attoned somewhat for our defeat in football by crushing Claysburg 30-14. By the end of the season this team had progressed so steadily that they defeated Saxton in the return game 29-23, but were on the short end of a 39-27 score in a hard fought battle with our Everett opponents.

JUNIOR VARSITY

The Junior Varsity, a new feature at Bedford High this year, was introduced for the primary purpose of developing varsity material. Without such a group the gap between the Junior High and Varsity teams is too great; with it there is a continuous upward movement of experienced players.

The 1941-42 team also defeated our Claysburg rivals 19-9 in first game of season, but lost by the close score of 22-18, in the return game. Undaunted they forged ahead to defeat Hooversville, a newcomer to our schedule, in both games.

GRAPPLERS

Although the team as a whole had an unsuccessful season, three members, "Big Bill" Mowery, Frank and Eddie Clark won district championship and Frank reached the semi-finals in the state elimination. With the exception of Bucklew and Beemiller the squad consisted entirely of first year men. Captain Faupel did not compete because of injuries sustained early in the season. After this year of training and experience, next year's squad should go places.

JUNIOR HIGH TIGERS

Since only one of last year's championship squad returned, the Tigers had a disastrous season when reckoned by games won. Nevertheless the boys had a grand time learning the fundamentals of basketball.

Although they suffered a crushing defeat in the opening game against Broadtop, they revenged themselves by winning a close return game 25-23. In a sensational game, last of the season with our arch rival, Everett, they were beaten in the closing seconds 16-12.

CHEERLEADERS

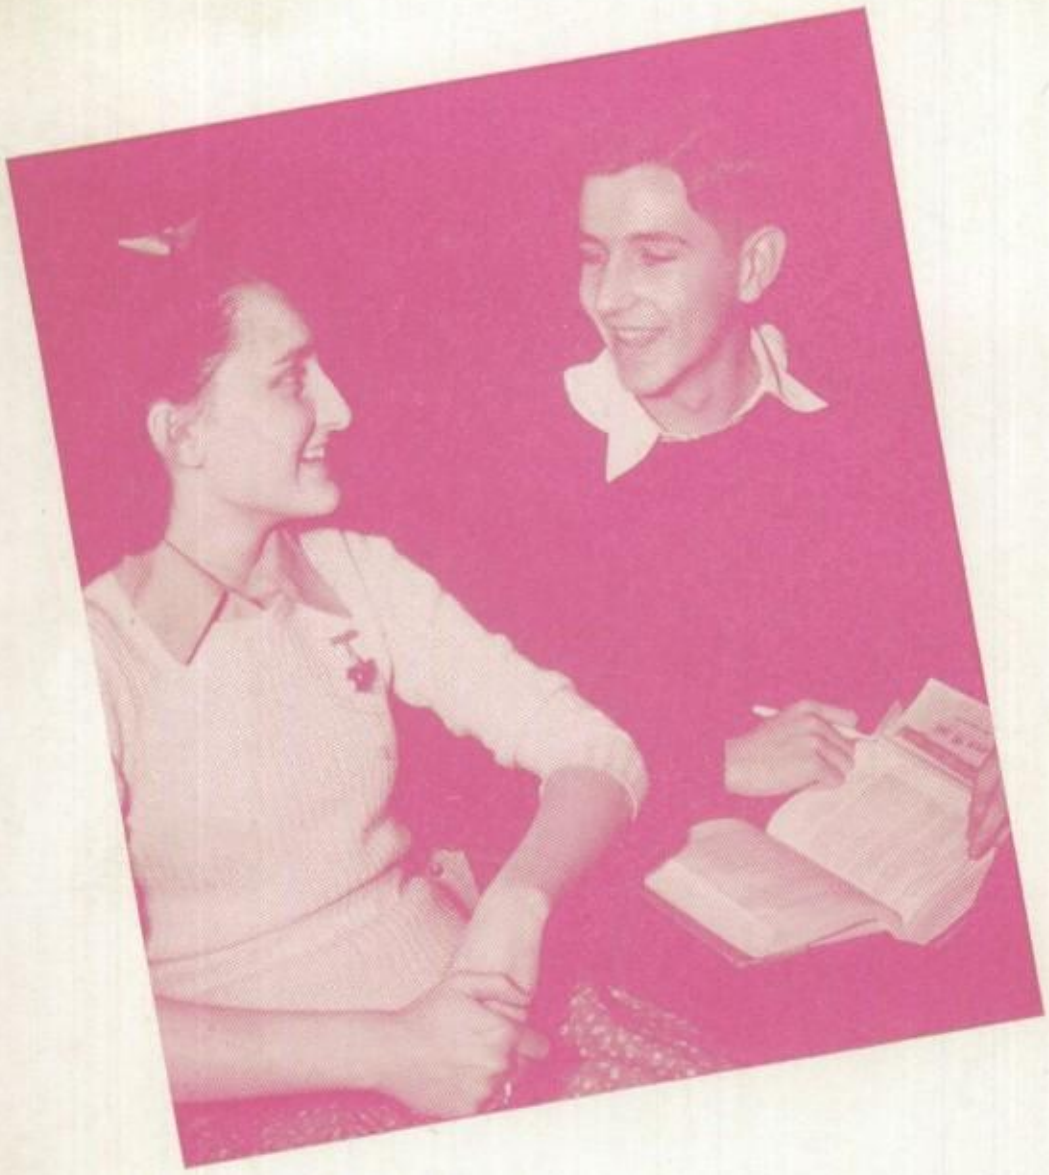
A first down! Eight similar blue and white figures dash from the sidelines and face the cheering crowd. "All right, gang, let's do blue and white!" As one the girls go through their tricky routines smoothly. This scene is repeated at all athletic events throughout the year where the girls work faithfully to back up our teams. This year marks the first appearance of the majorettes as cheerleaders and they have done a fine job figuring out new yells and the complicated routines that go with them.



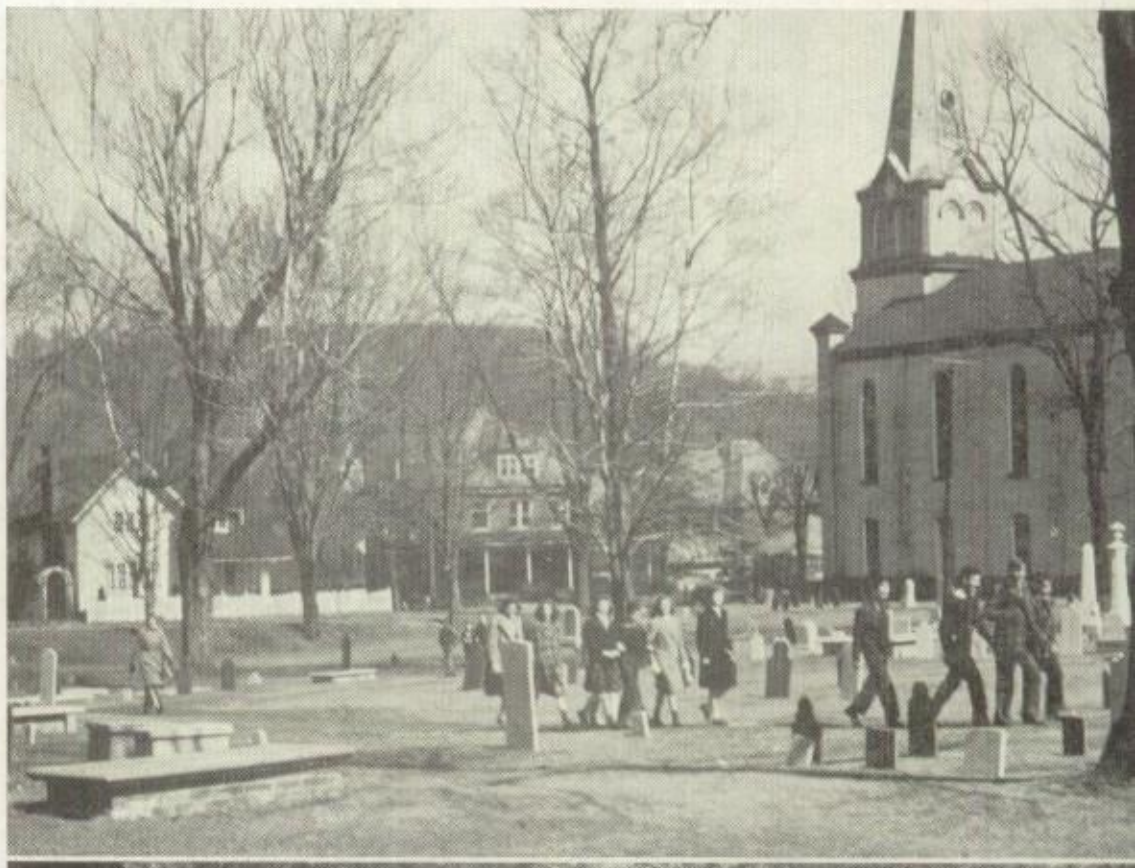
. . . thoughts of love

IN THE SPRING

A young man's fancy lightly turns . . .

To thoughts of love and sports. With the first mild breezes and thunderstorms of spring a lethargy, commonly known as spring fever, inevitably steals over us. From this blissful condition we can be aroused by only one of two things: a chronic case of love, or spring sports, which may vary anywhere from marbles to track. Yes, spring is the season when winter coats are tucked away in mothballs and tennis racquets taken out, the era of track, golf, and long walks in the moonlight. Spring reigns supreme, studies are forgotten—almost—and youth decked in her Easter outfit is queen. Then comes the rude awakening, final exams. Ignored are the warm breezes and the inviting moonlight, the textbook is King and students study feverishly, wishing fervently that they had been "listening the morning we had that". Then all is over, and we return once again to our tranquil existence.

Spring Fever's got them



Hold everything!

Activity in Spring

ON WINGS OF SONG

"Quiet now," shouts Miss Thompson, B.H.S. chorus director. When the noisy chatter subsides, librarians, Norma Anderson and Ruth Bussard, distribute the music. This year Dinty Elliott acts as manager while Louise Stroup as secretary-treasurer marks the attendance. The annual concert held in January this year marked the first appearance of the chorus, double quartet, and double trio in their new red, white and blue stoles.

DOUBLE TRIO

Row one: Jean Ebersole, Geraldine Bucklew, Peggy Kund, Norma Anderson, Louise Stroup, Catherine Hershberger.

DOUBLE QUARTET

THE MUSIC GOES ROUND AND ROUND

The Brass Ensemble was organized to develop individual ability and strengthen the brass section of the band. As the name indicates membership is limited to those persons in the band who play brass instruments.

The club has been an active one. They participated in musical assemblies, played carols during the holiday season and under the direction of student conductors gave a civic program.

SENIOR PERSONALITIES

These eight people were chosen for their distinct personalities and all around abilities. Each has his special field 'tis true, but all have, with the curiosity typical of youth, explored numerous other fields. So we chose each for personality and:

"Vinnie" for his outstanding athletic ability.

"Jim" for leadership in such a variety of activities.

June Drenning (Right)

"Bill" for his scholastic and musical genius.

"Lee" for his rare combination of artistic talent, charm, and business ability.

"Brownie" for her distinguished work in everything from cooking to dramatics.

"Speaker" for her vivacious leadership as our president and in the field of music.

"Catty" for her unusual dramatic ability, versatility and cooperative spirit.

"June" for her sparkling writing and efficient work as editor of both the "Echo" and the "Hi-Lites."

THE SENIOR STORY

Once upon a time many, many, years ago, there came to the town of Bedford a group of students, one hundred and six in all, who were going to enter Bedford High School. From north, south, east, and west they came that bright September morn. Big, little, tall, short, thin, fat, all freshmen, all entering a strange new world—high school.

A year later this same group, not so large now for some have taken other roads, gathers again. There is a difference in them, a more confident bearing, perhaps, for now they are sophomores.

Another September, the group assembles once more. This year they are juniors. This is the year for rings and the prom! They wonder if they looked as small and frightened when they were freshmen as that little girl over there.

September, 1941. The group arrives for the last time, only 84 of them now. Through the years they have increased in stature and wisdom until now they are dignified seniors. Comes the spring of 1942, and finally June 3, when they leave Bedford High School each upon his own way to live, we hope, happily ever after.

Bet they're cookin' up something

Not a smile in the crowd

Work and Play

The ideal combination of work and play leads to happiness. These folks seem to have found that combination. Busy, yet not so busy that they never get finished, they always manage to find time for everything—even play. One would think that they possess some secret formula for getting things done as some students do. Instead of moaning and groaning around in anguish, these industrious people go right ahead and are finished before the moaning ceases.

Oil takes out the squeaks

Busy people! Hard at work these people leave you under the impression that they are too busy and engrossed in their work to give any thought to play and amusement. This, however, is not true. No matter how busy they are they always finish their work and still have time to enjoy life to the fullest extent and participate eagerly in all of Bedford High School's many activities. These people believe in the first rule of a well regulated life, that of not only working to the best of their ability and accomplishing something but also taking time out for play.

We learned practical things

Do you know who we are? You don't? Well, we're the students who take courses which teach us practical things, like how to make a modernistic table, a beautifully browned omelet, turn out a perfect business letter, or latest farm methods. Yes, that's right, we're the ambitious future machinists, homemakers, farmers and secretaries of America. Now that you know who we are you had better know where to find us. You'll find some of us down here in the home "ec." rooms and more in the shop and "ag." building and the rest of us are up in the commercial department.

Fun for Everybody

Fall, winter, spring or summer—does it matter? We have fun in any season. First hiking and football take the limelight during the autumn days. Then in the white days of winter skating, skiing and sliding take the lead with plenty of spills and bruises, while for variety there is dancing to a popular blues tune. Then comes the time of year when fancy lightly turns to golf, tennis and track. Yes, it's spring! Then comes summer and a welcome vacation.

Feeding their faces again

Food's always fun

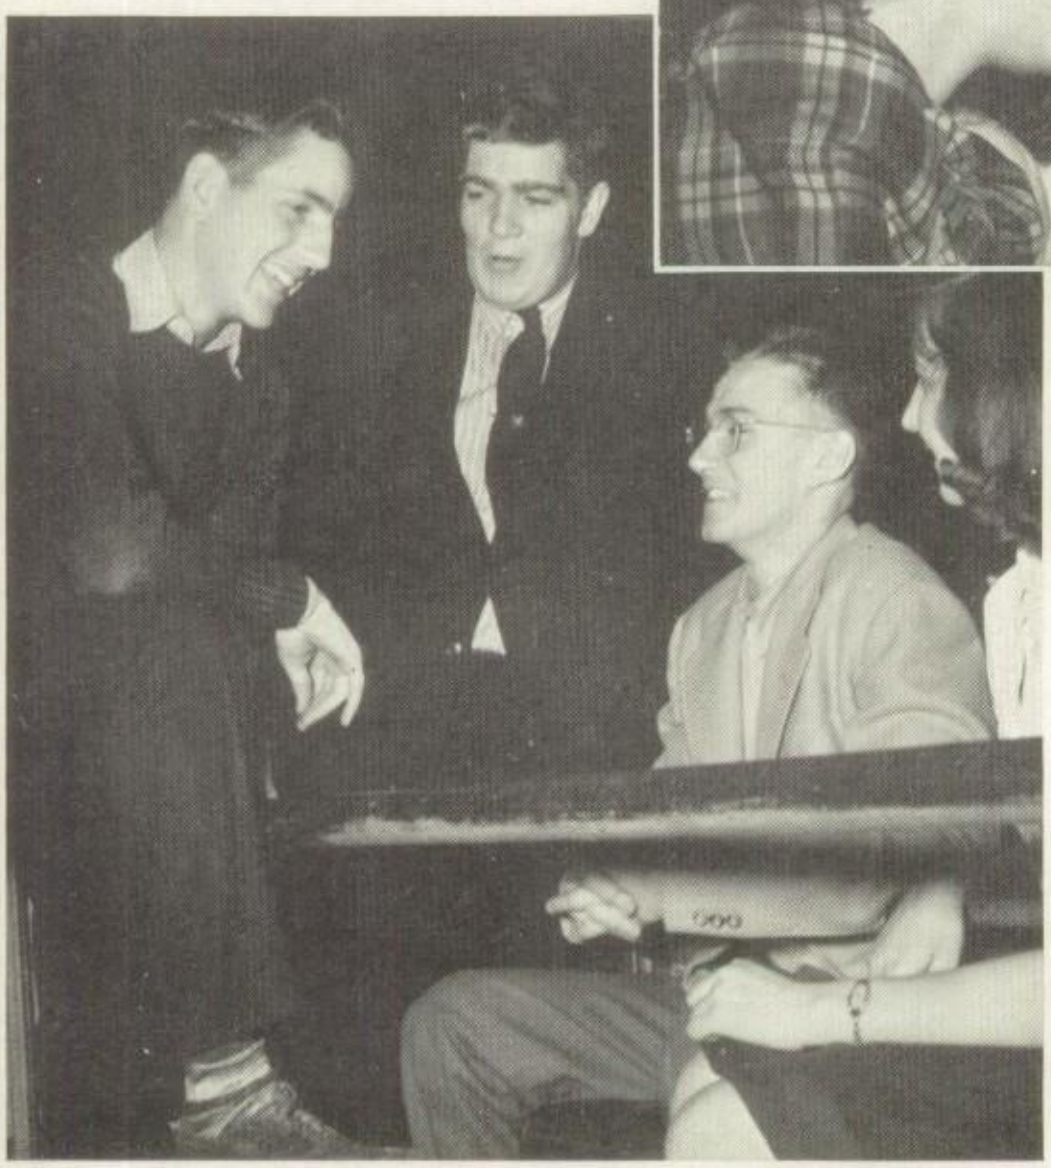
Juniors and Sophs

ENJOY LIFE

The Jolly Juniors heedless of all protests manage to get their noses in everyone's business and their fingers in every pie; they're out to get the most out of life. Their name fits them to a tee for they'd wring a laugh from the sourest person alive. Always merry, always in trouble, this group should hit its stride next year, for then it must carry on the traditions befitting dignified seniors.



Gee, the rings are swell!

JUNIOR OFFICERS

James Reese—Vice President
Thomas Elliott—Treasurer
Robert Girven—President
Jane Slick—Secretary

Believe it or not! they're studying.

SOPHOMORE OFFICERS

Spencer Shannon—President
Donald Hoagland—Vice President
Jack Drenning—Treasurer
Clare Clapper—Secretary

"Ps-s-st," and a note starts on its journey to the far corner of the room—who threw that thing? One of the busy sophs in study hall. Busy studying—dear me, no—you should know better. The super sophs do their studying goodness knows when, then drive us all to distraction with tricks and wiles during the precious study halls. When next year rolls around these lanky, half-grown kids will take their place among the upper classmen.

The Gay Juniors

September 1942 is here, and behold the Junior Class! So far as appearance is concerned, a complete transformation has taken place The skipping playful girls who appeared as sophomores of 1940 and 1941 are now clad in slacks and seem to be quite grown up; while the boys have gone strictly collegiate.

It has often been said that the junior year in high school is the best, and so it has been with us. Of the many hi-lights in the life of every student, two of them occur in this all important year, namely, the selecting of class rings and the prom! One balmy May evening light hearted juniors and seniors, decked in flowing evening gowns and best suits, danced in the gym, transformed for the occasion by soft lights, flowers, and sweet music.

Row three: William Perdew, Carl Pencil, Dean Whysong, Alice Nave, Betty Levergood, Ruth Zembower, Edith Hite, Nadene Zembower, Ruth Bussard, Mary Carl, Mildred Crist, Betty Smith.

"The Jolly Juniors" well deserve their name, for they are not only athletic but musically inclined, as well. Tooting away in the eighty-five piece "blue and white" band are no less than twenty-two, plus the drum major and two of the majorettes.

Several of the boys played on the football varsity and were a credit not only to their class but to the whole school. Again in basketball season, our team was well represented. On the mat we found several huge, monstrous grapplers from the Class of '43.

Thus during this momentous year we have increased not only in stature and wisdom, but also in dignity. Now at its close we feel duly qualified to cross the threshold to become the Senior Class of 1943.

Row two: Betty Chirdon, Virginia Arnold, Jane Kegg, Mary Lois Heit, Betty McDonald, Lois Rininger, Mary Emma Diehl, Thelma Mowery, Harriet Watters, Geneva Brenna, Lois Hershberger.

Super Sophomores

No, you just couldn't miss those sophomores; they had a finger in everything!

At the beginning of the year eight husky boys represented them on the football squad. Outstanding among these were Horner, Drenning, and Shaffer. Then during the winter sport season E. Clark and Horner were spotted on the wrestling team; while Drenning, W. Keys, J. Harris, Ickes, May, Leasure and Plummer played on the basketball teams. Sixteen musical members of the class hold positions in the high school band, but of course, many sophomore noses appear in chorus and clubs.

Row two: Betty Ickes, Rae Miller, Jean Williams, Marie Holderbaum, Pauline Ickes, Norma Conner, Edith Wambaugh, Marge Anderson, Anna Jean Cook, Betty Wolfe, Robert Shroyer, Gladys Hale.

"Will this meeting please come to order?" demanded the president vehemently, for approximately the fifth time. "If we are going to have a class, we've got to have a little order!" Can it be that this put the idea into some folks' heads that the arguing must stop and some plans dug up to make money? Finally the group agreed to sponsor a dance after the Everett basketball game with the Reed-Cessna Orchestra furnishing the music for the occasion. Since this dance happened to be a success, the class, a little encouraged, decided to have an all-school party. After a few more months of planning this party finally came off early in the spring. Surprise! It was hailed another success!

The weary sophomore class decided that the time had come to spend a part of this hard earned money, so they topped everything off by giving a party for themselves to end the year with a bang.

Frustrated Freshmen

Proud Freshmen announce to willing and skeptical ears alike that they are the largest class in the history of Bedford High School! One hundred and fifty-nine students, sixty percent of whom came from outside Bedford borough. Almost immediately the freshmen carved a niche for themselves in the school's extra curricular program. When the call sounded seven members of this group showed up on the gridiron, two of them, Tom Mundwiler and Tom Whitfield, on the first string. Eight "Freshies" including the captain, Glen Fisher were members of the junior high basketball team, and five members of this class were out for wrestling. Thirteen musical people appeared in the band and four in the orchestra. All the officers of the National Junior Honor Society, Betty Schnably, president, John Goad, vice president, Mary Lou Langham, secretary and Joann Fisher, treasurer; belong to this class.

In order to make money to take care of various obligations this class sponsored an all school party complete to dancing and games. In March they held another party for Freshmen exclusively—no outsiders allowed.

After wandering around the halls rather dazed and bewildered and struggling with first year Latin and algebra these underclassmen feel certain they are ready to tackle the next assignment, that of becoming sophomores.

The Younger Generation

EIGHTH GRADE

Fifty-five peppy members of the younger generation eagerly began the new year with their annual magazine sale. Profits from the sale of Curtis magazines to the townspeople helped to make life more interesting. Five dollars of this money was turned over to the Red Cross; while the rest was used to pay yearbook assessment, sponsor a seventh and eighth grade party, hold a taffy pull, and finally a picnic in the spring. Last but not least the class helped Uncle Sam by selling defense stamps.

The eighth grade of our school has had a constant record of achievement due largely to the capable leadership of its sponsor, Miss Ada Harned.

Row two: Jean Guyott, Kathryn Drenning, Jean Martin, Ruth Harbaugh, Dolores Hocker, Betty Grace Morris, Lou Ann Barnett, Theda Deshong, Shirley Renshaw.
Row three: Jack Bowser, Laura Hale, Betty Burkett, Patsy Miller, Dorothy Rohm, Peggy Arnold, Margaret Reese, Edyth Brown, Pauline Diehl, Anna Mae Shaffer, Jerry Diehl, Row four: John Miller, Alec Wood, Harold Tice, Fred Harbaugh, Jacques James, Glenn Fisher, Harry Imler, Ross Miller, George Nave, John Ott, William Jordan.

SEVENTH GRADE

September fifth saw the very youngest generation shyly approach the glass doors of Bedford High School. The first few weeks of school found these seventh graders wandering aimlessly about the halls trying to find their classroom. Later in the fall, however, they distinguished themselves by presenting two units plays in assembly entitled Seeing America First and The First Thanksgiving. These plays were the result of six weeks of unit work in the homerooms under the direction of Miss Donahoe and Miss Harned. This plan, in which students take unit work in the morning, was established to acquaint the new pupils gradually with the high school system.

Since "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy" this group joined the eighth grade in a class party. In order to raise money to pay their various obligations, they climaxed their first year here by holding a bake sale, and are now ready to step up the next rung on the ladder of education.

Row one (bottom): Vaughn Wakefoose, Edith Sleeman, Dotty Lou Fisher, Dorlene Harkleroad, Betty Boore, Clara Rose, Adelene Davidson, Mary Jane Miller, Patty Holderbaum.
Row two: Emma Feight, Doris Miller, Betty Patty, Joan Kilcoin, Betty Ann Cohn, Grace Tritt, Dotty Kerr, Shirley Reighard, Patsy Hardman, Donnie Wrye.

Thus Endeth The Tale

The year is over, so we will write "The End" to the 1942 edition of "The Echo." We hope you have enjoyed reviewing with us the highlights in the year's activities. May this book be a souvenir, typical of life at Bedford High. Through the years we hope it will be the spark that will rekindle the fires of memory and guide your thoughts back to this year, 1942. The staff has spent many hours compiling this record for you. We will feel that they have been well spent if by word or picture we can strike a responsive chord and bring to mind a chorus of pleasant memories.

$2800 A YEAR

A Catherman student of the 1940-41 Class recently passed a government examination in accounting, making a grade of 99%, the highest in the class, and received an appointment paying him $2800 a year, plus subsistence.

A position is not something that one gives another—it is something that one commands by his capacity, ability and qualifications.

There is a reason why more young people each year are entrusting their training to Catherman's Business School.

APPRECIATION

The staff of the nineteen hundred forty-two Bedford Echo desires to express its sincere appreciation to those people without whose willing cooperation the present volume could not have been published. We appreciate the fine assistance which the administration and student body have given to the preparation to this year's Echo. We are especially grateful to Mr. Donald Young, of the Pontiac Engravinging Company, to Messrs. Elmer and Henry Deglau, of the Crescent Studio, and to Mr. J. Arthur Armstrong, of the Standardized Press, whose helpful advice was of inestimable aid in the publishing of this edition of the yearbook.
